

THE MORNING APPEAL.

TUESDAY, JUNE 4

JONES' SUGGESTION.

The suggestion of Senator Jones, that the delegates from States which favor the coinage of gold and silver on equal terms at the United States Mint, to the National Republican and Democratic conventions, leave those conventions in a body if they fail to unequivocally declare for free coinage should receive attention from those adherents of the Wall street twins in Nevada, who claim to be sincerely in favor of free coinage. If it is left to the option of the leaders to bolt the conventions they will stay with them whatever the resolutions may be, as they will expect federal pay as a reward for their fealty to party in the event of the party's success. They should therefore be instructed to leave the convention unless the convention declares for free coinage. If this advice is followed the gold men, who control the organizations of the old parties, will be compelled to throw off their disguises and unite at the polls as they do in Congress, and make common cause against the silver men.

The Democrats of the South and West, who favor silver, are said to have an understanding as to the mode of procedure in the national convention. They will make a determined effort to put a free coinage plank in the platforms and nominate a free coinage candidate for President. That will compel the gold men to bolt, and failing in the attempt they will bolt themselves. If this programme should be carried out by the Democrats and Republicans there would be no question as to the election of a free coinage President next year. It would be immaterial, or at most a matter of very little consequence, what name the silver men may adopt. The simple fact of compelling the gold men of the old parties to come out in their true colors, will insure the election of the free coinage candidate. What is needed now is unity of action on the part of the silver men. Let no man suspected of being a monometallist or of placing party success above the prosperity of the State be sent as a delegate to any national convention.

A Bar of Pure Gold.

Uncle Sam is preparing a standard for pure gold, according to the St. Louis Globe Democrat. It will take the form of a bar weighing 50 ounces. This bar will be cut into several pieces, one of which will be given to each of the United States mints and assay offices. A slice will also be sent to England for comparison with the British standard of pure gold.

It seems that no absolutely pure gold has ever been produced in this country—at all events, none of which there can be a certainty. The standards now possessed by the various mints differ somewhat; not one of them are free from impurity. For the purpose of exactness in assay work, it is desired to have a standard that is, as Caesar's wife should be—beyond suspicion.

The bar that is to be is now a liquid. The 20 ounces of gold are in a chemical solution at the mint in Philadelphia. The yellow metal thus dissolved was extra fine to begin with, having only one-tenth of 1 per cent of impurity. The impurity was chiefly silver. This gold was rolled to very thin sheets and then put into a tank of aqua regia and hydrochloric acid.

The solution of gold made in this was diluted with 20 gallons of distilled water. In that condition it now remains, a thin, but precious liquor. Under the action of the acid the silver falls down to the bottom of the tank in a white cloud. At the end of a month the clear liquid will be drawn off carefully into flasks, without stirring, so as to leave the silver impurity behind. Sulphurous acid gas will then be passed through the solution, causing it to throw down the pure metallic gold.

But many processes have yet to be gone through before the gold will be considered chemically pure.

It will be washed with distilled water, boiled with hydrochloric acid, dissolved in aqua regia, evaporated almost to dryness, diluted with water and precipitated in metallic form by oxalic acid. All this will then be repeated. Finally the gold will be collected, melted in a porcelain crucible and made into a bar. The piece of the bar that is sent to each mint will be compared by chemical tests with the standard of pure gold now in use at that mint.

Dr. Patterson, in his plea for the pardon of Mrs. Hartley yesterday, depicted the applicant as utterly lonely and defenseless. This does not describe it fully. He should have said so utterly lonely and defenseless that, even the Republican newspapers of Nevada have mustered sufficient courage to attack her.

Now is the season of the year when you lay in your supply of wall-paper. John G. Fox has some new designs and such a variety on hand that you cannot help be satisfied.

ICE. ICE. ICE.

The only pure ice in the market is that sold by Dr. J. M. Benton. It is cut on the Carson River—from pure, running water and not formed on stagnant pools, swarming with animal life. It is ice from mountain water that has its origin in the snow capped peaks of the Sierras and means health as well as coolness to the consumer.

An Offer.
